Professional standards pathway: ARCH, CNHC and General Naturopathic Council context, plus First Aid, DBS, insurance, CPD and supervised practice expectations.

A structured route, not a rushed certificate

The course combines 4 theory weekends, 8 practical training days, 15 supervised sessions and assessment preparation over several months.

4 theory weekends

Structured teaching, guided reading, homework and preparation.

8 practical training days

Hands-on practical training through Nottingham clinic expertise.

15 supervised sessions

Supported progression towards professional practice.

Usually 3 students

Small UK intakes allow closer tutor support and feedback.

Eligibility before payment

Jane can review your background before you pay if anything is unclear.

Practice readiness

Training includes professional standards, consultation habits and clinic-readiness guidance.

Clear fee and deposit terms

£3,500

A £500 non-refundable deposit secures your place once suitability is confirmed, with the £3,000 balance due later under the current course terms.

Do not pay a deposit if you are unsure whether you meet the requirements. Ask Jane to review your background first.

What students work through

The programme combines anatomy, physiology, standards, client care, practical technique and clinic-readiness.

Jane teaches from real clinical experience at Gedling Colonics, with privacy, hygiene, consultation and client communication treated as part of professional practice.

Clinical foundations

- Anatomy and physiology
- Body systems
- Pathology and referral awareness

Client safety

- Indications and contraindications
- Client screening
- Consultation and dignity

Practical technique

- Equipment and hygiene
- Treatment protocols
- Aftercare awareness

Professional practice

- Records and conduct
- Business readiness
- Assessment preparation

Individual, clinic and international routes

The right route depends on who is training, where they will practise and whether the facilities, timing and suitability are clear.

Individual UK students

Suitable students can reserve an approved May or November UK intake once requirements and readiness are clear.

Clinics and retreats

Clinic owners, spas and retreats can discuss training suitable staff before adding colonic hydrotherapy to a service menu.

International enquiries

Jane may discuss UK-based or hosted arrangements case by case, including facilities, travel, accommodation and group size.

After qualification

Students should plan professional requirements, room setup, records, visibility and realistic next steps into practice.
